ANYTHING TO SAY?

THE EMPTY CHAIR IS FOR YOU

Piazza IV Novembre, Perugia
04-10 April #ijf16

Anything to say? is a life-sized bronze sculpture by Davide Dormino portraying three figures, each one standing on a chair. The fourth chair is empty because it is our chair, one for us to stand up on to express ourselves or simply to stand next to Edward Snowden, Julian Assange and Chelsea Manning who had the courage to say no to the intrusion of global surveillance and to the lies that lead to war. They chose to leave the comfort zone of their lives to tell the truth.

"I believe in acts. Public art has the power to make people grow and change their point of view. The chair has a double meaning. It can be comfortable, but it can also be a pedestal to rise higher, to get a better view, to learn more. They all chose to get up on the chairs of courage. They made their move despite becoming visible, thus threatened and judged. Some think they are traitors. History has never had a positive opinion of contemporary revolutionaries. You need courage to act, to stand up on that empty chair even if it hurts." Davide Dormino
